~~In my opinion, we have only one choice. That is to build more dams for water storage and power generation. If you are thinking about the future, we should not be thinking about taking prime ag land out of production. The population is increasing and the need for food will due likewise. We are going to have to realize that we are not going to save every species of animal and plant that is here today. Species have been evolving and disappearing since time began. Eco systems change no matter what man does or doesn't do. We will have a tough time living off fairy shrimp cocktails and barbecued kangaroo rat.~~

Use additional sheets if necessary.
